

WILD SCRAMBLE ON FOR RICH OIL LAND

DISCOVERY NEAR CLEVELAND
BELIEVED TO BE FORERUN-
NER OF BIG FIND.

Special to The Oklahoman.

Tulsa, I. T., March 18.—Following the discovery of oil on the Meadows farm near Cleveland, Oklahoma, there is a big scramble for leases in that section of the country. Prominent operators from this place are getting leases and available land within a wide radius of the newest oil field in the new state will be leased up in a little while.

The Meadows well gives evidence of being a great producer and is believed to be the forerunner of another great oil pool. When drilled into deep sand, oil operators predict it will make from 750 to 1000 barrels daily of oil which has tested 43 gravity, a high grade product.

The Big Wolf company, composed of Wisconsin men, own the well and lease.
